

Why I Want to go to college

I want to go to college because I want to be able to have a good, high paying job to support my family one day. I haven't figured out what I want to be yet but I have a few ideas. One of the ideas I have is to be a nurse. Another one is to be a large animal vet. I would also enjoy being an agriculture teacher.

I would like to be a large animal vet because I enjoy working with animals. I'm very interested in helping animals. I think it would be fun getting to travel to different places to help animals. I want to be able to help cattle and other large animals with any problems.

I think it would be fun to be a nurse because I enjoy helping people. It would be so cool to get to watch surgery close up. I like to care for people, it makes me feel good about myself.

I would like to be an ag teacher because I like to learn about agriculture and to participate in FFA activities. It's important that people learn about agriculture especially since we live in such an agriculture dependent town. Most jobs around here require some sort of agricultural knowledge. So teaching kids about the importance of agriculture would really help them out in the long run.

I have quite a few options of what I want to do in the future, but no matter what the main reason I want to do any of those jobs is to help people or animals. All of the jobs I would like to do would be successful in the community we live in since all the jobs have something to do with agriculture. If I had to choose one of those jobs to pursue I would most likely pick veterinarian because I really enjoy working and being around animals.
