

The reason I want to go to college is because I want to have a career. College is able to help you in many ways like getting you a family, a home and a job. For example you have more opportunities to work someplace than not having a diploma ,because they will be more likely to go for you if you have a college degree. College might seem hard and difficult but it is worth it to get a job and have an opportunity to do what you want with your life. A job is important because I need to buy a house,pay the bills, and live out my life. Taking my education further is important to me,my family. I feel that my future is what I create of it. I'm ready for what is going to happen in my future and all of the adventures on the way. Applying for jobs getting my way through college I hope I learn that things in life are not just handed to you and you have to work your way through to make it possible. I hope when I get to high school I study and try out for more things so I can be prepared to start applying for colleges. I know I will be supported along the way by family and friends and I will have a good time in college and coming home to my family during holidays and the summer break. I'm hoping the next few years go slower because even though I said I'm ready I would like to stay because I don't want to leave quite yet.
